The Trust:

With a local population of around 720,500 people to support, East Kent Hospitals University NHS Foundation Trust is one of the largest Trusts in the country. It operates in five hospitals and several community clinics across Ashford, Canterbury, Folkstone and the surrounding areas. The Trust's specialist urology, kidney disease and vascular services are also open to the wider community.

The Trust strives to be an example of clinical excellence across education, research and innovation. Its commitment can be seen through exceptionally low infection rates, consistently high numbers of patients on research trials, and pioneering technology such as its robotic surgery or hi-tech patient monitoring system. East Kent Hospitals University NHS Foundation Trust is dedicated to, and passionate about, improving health and wellbeing within its community.
